

MEMOIRS OF MCLEOD'S DAUGHTERS

A BATH "UNDER THE STARS"...USED BY THE STARS...

This is the original bath tub and windmill from the series which saw many a star soaking in it's bubbles. These are the most recognized props from this popular series and are symbolic to the themes of the show.

Take advantage of this photo opportunity, hop into the tub and feel like part of the family, having your photo taken for your family album.

MEMOIRS OF MCLEOD'S DAUGHTERS WALK

Freeling is home to many filming locations used in the McLeod's Daughters series, these include the Gungellan Truck Stop, Town Hall, Gungellan Hotel and the streetscapes which were used for filming in almost every episode.

1. Gungellan Hotel

Gray Street, Freeling

Play a game of pool, have a meal or buy some souvenirs from one of the most recognized pubs in Australia. The Gungellan Hotel stands proudly in Freeling and has been kept true to its form as shown in the series, great photo opportunities and memorabilia on display.

Some memorable moments in the Gungellan Hotel were:

- Claire and Tess McLeod singing karaoke before Tess retires to one of the accommodation rooms for her first night with Alex Ryan;
- The McLeod's women try to foil the publican by luring him into a trap to catch him "in the act" after his misconduct with Becky. Unfortunately Meg just gets herself into trouble and narrowly avoids a very serious situation;
- The hotel sure was busy with Stevie Hall & Alex Ryan's first night together as well, some series later;
- Tayler confronts her estranged mum on the verandah after 15 years of not hearing a word.

2. Someone Might Like It (memorabilia on display)

Shop 4 Hanson Street, Freeling

The local opportunity shop, "Someone Might Like It" fundraises to assist the local community and is run by a dedicated team of volunteers. Props, clothing and knick knacks were sourced here by the producers, set and costume designers, offering a treasure trove of bargains!

Some quirky memorabilia is on show, as well as some original artwork done by a local artist that was featured in a number of scenes throughout the series.

3. Gungellan Coffee Break & Browse (memorabilia – photos)

Shop 5/2 Hanson Street, Freeling

Sit and enjoy a coffee or a delicious cake or grab some lunch in the coffee shop where your favourite stars would visit during shooting. Check out the McLeod's Daughters photos on the wall of the cast and crew in "Gungellan" during the making of the series.

4. Freeling Institute (Gungellan Town Hall)

Clarke Street, Freeling

In Episode 163 the town is re-enacting the founding moments of Gungellan 175 years ago, however the Gungellan Farmers Council refuse to acknowledge the women of the past. During the sesqui-centenary celebrations Jodi rides in on her horse to impress upon the men that the McLeod's women were just as important in the foundation of the township as the men were.

The Freeling Institute is a beautiful old stone building still used by the community today for many different functions and is available for hire. In the McLeod's Daughters series this location was a popular spot for protests, town meetings, the Gungellan Ball and meetings of the Gungellan Farmers Council.

When filming, the stars and production crew used to park their production vehicles and change rooms alongside the hall and use the institute as a break out area and dining hall.

5. Gungellan Truckstop

Hanson St, Freeling

The Truckstop was the place to go for local gossip and a cuppa. Originally owned by an ex-champion boxer, Ken Logan, the Gungellan Truckstop had fallen into disrepair. On his sudden death, the business was revived by a dream of Terry's and sold to Harry Ryan, the local hard-nosed land mogul. After Harry's untimely passing, the Truckstop was purchased by another man (not dissimilar to Harry) Phil Rackich and the sassy Moira Doyle, female mechanic extraordinaire who stole his heart.

This iconic landmark is still available for great photo opportunities from the outside, as all inside props have been sold.
